Rally: 19 December 2024 from 8:30 a.m. in front of the Berlin House of Representatives

The universities and scientific institutions are the backbone of our city. This is where teaching, research and study take place - shaping the future. This task unites us all: students, researchers, teaching staff and employees in technology and administration. We all keep this unique cosmos running.

The cuts for 2025 are a serious cut. Any further cuts will jeopardise Berlin's position as a leading science location. We demand: No further cuts at the expense of science!

Universities and scientific institutions stand for the future of this city. Together we must make it clear that science needs good and reliable framework conditions.

Let's make our voices heard together! For better study conditions, secure jobs and sustainable science. Your participation makes the difference.

You are exempt from your official duties for taking part. This also applies to teaching and study activities. Only examinations are exempt - examinations must be held.

Students - you are the future of society. Your education and prospects depend on a well-equipped, modern scientific landscape.

Researchers and teachers - you are the driving force behind the academic system. Cuts mean fewer resources, less planning security and less freedom to develop new ideas.

Technical and administrative staff - Without you, no university, college or research institution can function. The cuts will also affect you - through additional workload, lack of investment in infrastructure and long-term uncertainties.

It is your science - your future - your voice! Set an example - be part of it!
