

Survey among lecturers on the presence of students in courses

The opportunity for direct interaction between lecturers and students in courses is a central aspect of an on-campus university like Humboldt-Universität. However, time and again, and unfortunately more and more often, students stay away from lectures and seminars even though they are registered for a course. In order to better understand the causes of this development, the Department of the Vice President for Academic Affairs is conducting a short survey among teaching staff at HU and cordially invites you to participate.

The aim is to investigate

- what student absence means for teaching
- which reasons are behind the non-attendance of students
- what measures can be developed to encourage student attendance and participation in courses

The survey only takes a few minutes and your answers are anonymous. Your feedback will help to drive forward the continuous development of teaching at Humboldt-Universität.

Further information

Take part in the survey.

If you have any questions or feedback on the survey, please contact the Quality Management Office at befragung-qm@hu-berlin.de

Click here to unsubscribe.

Grafik: Julia Baier

Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin

Unter den Linden 6
10099 Berlin

E-Mail: interne-kommunikation@hu-berlin.de

www.hu-berlin.de