

Grimm-Zentrum: Eastern reading room terraces temporarily closed

A skylight above the reading room terraces in the Jacob-und-Wilhelm-Grimm-Zentrum was damaged last weekend. The damage was presumably caused by a stone chip - caused by a crow. Until the splintered window is replaced, the eastern terraces must be closed for safety reasons. As a result, 145 workstations cannot be used until further notice.

In order to ensure adequate working conditions in the library despite the closure, access will be restricted to Humboldt-Universität members until 7 p.m. each night on the weekends of July 29-30 and August 5-6. The control of the student campus card as well as the library cards for HU employees will take place at the security gates. We ask for your understanding and are working intensively to eliminate the restrictions. Currently, the Grimm-Zentrum is, as always, very busy during the exam period, especially on weekends. The foyer is still open to the public.
