

Department of Psychology

Wolfgang Köhler-Haus · Rudower Chaussee 18 · 12489 Berlin · Germany

Psychology as a life science discipline

- Basic cognitive science and neuroscience: response conflicts, action monitoring and control, implicit learning
- Clinical neuroscience: obsessive-compulsive disorder and schizophrenia
- Individual differences and personality: sociosexuality, face processing, aging
- Transfer research: man-machine interaction, conflict management, treatment of anxiety disorders

Partners

- Charite – University Medicine Berlin
- Max-Planck Institute for Human Development, Berlin
- Clinical Research Group, Harvard Medical School, Boston, USA
- Institute of Psychiatry, London, UK
- University of Wales, Bangor, UK
- Cognitive Neuroscience Section, NINDS, Bethesda, USA

Research Networks

- DFG Research Unit 778 “Between interference and optimization: Conflicts as signals in cognitive systems” (Coordinator)
- DFG Priority Program 1107 “Executive Functions”
- DFG Priority Program 1184 “Age-differentiated work systems”
- BMBF Research collaborations on cognitive performance and relevant disorders in humans
- BMBF Research collaborations on effective fighting of diseases: psychotherapy
- Interdisciplinary Wolfgang Köhler Center for Research on Conflicts in Intelligent Systems (Designated Coordinator)

Graduate and Doctoral Programs

- “Berlin School of Mind and Brain”
- “Neuropsychiatry and Psychology of Aging”
- “Perspectives on Urban Ecology”
- PhD program “prometei”
- International Max-Planck Research School LIFE
- Postgraduate program “Psychological Psychotherapy”

Excellence Initiative

Berlin School of Mind and Brain

- 5 members of the Dept. Psychol. among the founders of the School
- 8 students graduated from the Dept. Psychol. were admitted as PhD students to the School

Facts 2008

Teaching program:	Diploma psychologist (equivalent to a MSc)
Full professorships	10
Junior professorships	4
Students	759 (Diploma program)
Diploma degrees awarded	112 (2007)
PhD degrees awarded	10 (2007)
Third party funding	1.3 Mio. € (2007)

www.psychologie.hu-berlin.de